The Imperative of Skilling Up for India's Green Transition

Ranjana Kumari

India's green transition is well underway, bringing with it a wave of economic opportunities, innovation, and workforce transformation. As the country moves towards a climate-positive economy, it is expected to unlock a staggering $1 trillion in value by 2030 and create 35 million green jobs by 2047. However, this transition also presents challenges, particularly in skill development and workforce readiness.

India has committed to achieving net-zero emissions by 2070, with ambitious policies supporting renewable energy, electric vehicles (EVs), green construction, sustainable textiles, and waste management. Investment in renewable energy hit a record $14.5 billion in 2022, reflecting strong policy backing and global confidence. Additionally, initiatives such as the Production Linked Incentive (PLI) schemes aim to boost local manufacturing of green products, further strengthening India's green industrial base.

Job Creation Across Sectors

The transition to a green economy is not just about reducing carbon emissions but also about creating millions of sustainable jobs. The renewable energy sector is projected to generate 3.26 million jobs in solar energy and 0.18 million in wind energy by 2050. The EV industry, which is expected to create 10 million direct and 50 million indirect jobs by 2030, will play a significant role in workforce transformation, particularly as Internal Combustion Engine (ICE) workers upskill to work on EVs. The textile sector, home to 45 million workers, is also undergoing a green transformation, requiring upskilling in sustainable production and waste reduction practices. Additionally, the waste management sector, particularly e-waste management, is expected to generate 0.5 million formal jobs by 2025.

Bridging the Skills Gap

While the demand for green jobs is surging, a significant skills gap remains a challenge. Currently, less than 10% of India's youth receive formal training in any sector, and awareness of green job opportunities is still limited. To address this, India needs comprehensive green skill development policies that align with emerging job roles.

The Skill Council for Green Jobs (SCGJ) plays a crucial role in offering specialised training programmes such as Solar PV Installer, Wind Power Plant Technician, and Bio-Energy Technician. The Green Skill Development Programme (GSDP) aims to train 7 million youth in environmental, forestry, and climate change sectors, addressing the growing demand for sustainable skills. The National Green Hydrogen Mission promotes hydrogen as a clean energy

Swavalambini: Expanding Horizons for Women Entrepreneurs

EN TEAM

The Swavalambini Women Entrepreneurship Programme is creating a heartening impact across India, expanding its reach to prestigious institutions like Banaras Hindu University (BHU), the University of Hyderabad, Chaudhary Charan Singh University, and Maulana Azad National Urdu University, among others, igniting a new era of women-led enterprise and innovation. Having already taken root in Higher Education Institutions (HEIs) in the East and Northeast—including IIT Bhubaneswar, Utkal University, NEHU Shillong, and Mizoram University—this expansion marks a significant leap in the Government of India's commitment to fostering a culture of entrepreneurship among women. As the programme reaches new regions, it brings with it the promise of greater economic independence and self-reliance for Indian women, eager to break barriers and shape their futures.

This expansion augurs well for women in India, signalling a shift from merely creating employment opportunities for women to building an ecosystem where women are the architects of their own economic destinies. By equipping them with entrepreneurial skills, financial literacy, and mentorship, Swavalambini moves beyond conventional skill-development schemes to champion women-led enterprises. In a nation where women's participation in the workforce is steadily increasing, empowering them with the tools to become job creators rather than job seekers is a transformative step forward.

At its core, Swavalambini follows a structured and stage-wise entrepreneurial journey for young women. Implemented by the National Institute for Entrepreneurship and Small Business Development (NIESBUD) in collaboration with NITI Aayog, the programme includes:

The Entrepreneurship Awareness Programme (EAP) serves as a crucial stepping stone for aspiring entrepreneurs, equipping them with the fundamental skills and insights needed to navigate the world of business. Designed to inspire and motivate individuals to take the entrepreneurial leap, the programme covers key areas such as business planning, market analysis, and risk management, ensuring that participants grasp the essentials of enterprise creation. By introducing the principles of entrepreneurship and the nuances of starting a business, EAP provides a structured approach to idea validation and opportunity recognition. Moreover, the programme sheds light on vital funding avenues, government schemes, and policy support, enabling participants to leverage financial resources effectively. Risk assessment and management training further empower individuals to make informed decisions, balancing entrepreneurial ambition with strategic foresight. Through exposure to real-life success stories, EAP instils confidence and a growth mindset, reinforcing the idea that entrepreneurship is not merely a career choice but a transformative force for economic and social progress.

The Women Entrepreneurship Development Programme (EDP), another key initiative under Swavalambini, serves as a transformative intervention designed to equip women with the knowledge, skills, and networks necessary to establish and scale their businesses. Through an intensive training module, participants gain critical insights into financial management, market linkages, regulatory compliance, and business planning—essential components of enterprise success. The programme goes beyond theoretical instruction, integrating real-world exposure through case studies, simulation exercises, and field visits, ensuring participants grasp practical business dynamics. By fostering entrepreneurial competencies such as marketing strategies, financial decision-making, and effective communication, EDP addresses the core challenges faced by women entrepreneurs. Crucially, post-training mentorship and networking opportunities with industry experts create a support ecosystem that helps women transition from ideation to execution.

The Six-Month Mentorship and Handholding Support under Swavalambini serves as a critical bridge between entrepreneurial ambition and successful enterprise creation, ensuring that women-led ventures move beyond ideation to tangible, market-ready businesses. By pairing participants with experienced mentors—industry experts, successful entrepreneurs, or business leaders—the programme offers personalised guidance tailored to the unique challenges of each startup. Regular check-ins and structured feedback loops help refine business strategies, improve product-market fit, and address operational hurdles. More than just advisory support, this initiative actively facilitates networking, connecting budding entrepreneurs with potential investors, industry peers, and incubators, thereby unlocking avenues for funding and strategic partnerships. Through problem-solving assistance in areas like regulatory compliance, financial management, and marketing, participants gain the confidence and competence needed to navigate real-world business challenges. The structured approach of idea refinement, prototype development, launch preparation, and post-launch support ensures a holistic entrepreneurial journey, significantly reducing risks while enhancing business sustainability. By embedding mentorship at the core of enterprise development, this initiative fosters a generation of resilient women entrepreneurs who are not just starting businesses but are actively shaping India's economic future through innovation and self-reliance.

Conclusion: A Future-Ready Green Workforce

Apart from initiatives such as the Skill Council for Green Jobs (SCGJ) and Green Skill Development Programme (GSDP), which have already trained over one million candidates, the government is implementing multi-faceted strategies, including the integration of sustainability-focussed curricula in educational institutions, fostering industry-academia collaborations, and enhancing workforce inclusivity. These efforts are ensuring that students and professionals are equipped with essential skills in emerging green sectors, such as renewable energy, sustainable construction, waste management, and green transportation.

To facilitate widespread skill development, digital learning platforms are being leveraged alongside hands-on training programmes, enabling flexible and practical knowledge acquisition. Industry collaborations are playing a crucial role in bridging the gap between theoretical education and real-world application by offering internships, apprenticeships, and direct training opportunities. Furthermore, dedicated efforts are being made to enhance gender inclusivity and increase participation from underrepresented communities, thereby ensuring equitable access to green job opportunities across various demographics.

Public awareness campaigns are also driving interest in green jobs, ensuring that more individuals, including students, workers, and entrepreneurs, are aware of the opportunities within the green economy. Strengthening policies and encouraging public-private partnerships are fostering an ecosystem that supports skill-building, employment generation, and sustainable industrial practices. By proactively investing in green skill development, India is not only generating employment but also reinforcing its position as a global leader in sustainable development and green economic growth, ensuring long-term environmental and economic resilience.

Q). Have you undertaken training through the Skill India Mission? How has it shaped your career journey and professional growth? Please share your experience with us!

The Skill India Mission has been a transformative initiative for many aspiring professionals, including myself. Enrolling in one of its training programs was a turning point in my career, equipping me with industry's relevant skills and hands-on experience. The structured training modules, guided by expert trainers, helped bridge the gap between theoretical knowledge and practical application.

One of the most significant impacts of this training was the enhancement of my technical skills. I underwent a course in Certificate in Computer Application, which not only deepened my expertise but also made me more confident in my abilities. The program emphasized practical learning, which enabled me to work on real world projects, preparing me for industry challenges.

Additionally, the Skill India Mission played a crucial role in my professional growth by offering career guidance, soft skills training, and placement assistance. The exposure to industry standards and best practices gave me a competitive edge in the job market. Soon after completing the course, I secured a job in a reputed company, which would have been difficult without this initiative.

Beyond employment, the training fostered an entrepreneurial mindset, encouraging me to think innovatively and explore new opportunities. Overall, the Skill India Mission has been instrumental in shaping my career path, providing me with the confidence and skills needed to succeed. I highly recommend it to others who are looking to upskill and grow professionally.
